

Marcus “Goodie” Goodloe, Catalyst
Mosaic, Los Angeles

Goodie’s passions moved him professionally to engage adults and youth in both structured and organic conversations surrounding the areas of leadership, racial reconciliation, synergy, strategic planning, and social justice. These experiences led to his involvement as a national speaker for The Song of Solomon Bible Conferences, Youth Specialties, and Rightnow.org.

Goodie co-wrote and developed a DVD leadership and social justice series, in conjunction with www.Bluefish.tv.com, on the life and person of Nehemiah (2006); he released another series with them entitled, “Choose,” in the fall of 2008. Goodie serves as cite catalyst for both the Westside and Southbay gatherings of Mosaic, in Los Angeles. A Compton, California native, Goodie is currently pursuing a PhD in leadership, at Dallas Baptist University. He has been married to Lucy since 1997; they have two children, Hannah (5 years of age) and Joshua (3 years of age).
